Dear Friend,

The library is busier than ever! Book groups, computer classes, storytimes, summer reading programs, and community group meetings, along with hundreds of residents borrowing books and movies or using a computer every day, make the library central to our community.

Service to job seekers is one timely and relevant service the library provides. Free internet access, hands-on assistance, a designated job services computer station, and free computer classes offered by the Job Services Center of the Lebanon County Library System are all heavily used and provide invaluable assistance to local residents looking for work.

The library is a gateway to a lifetime of curiosity, imagination, and learning, beginning at birth with our Smart Start Storytimes. The storytimes provide activities, music, stories, and bonding opportunities for babies, siblings, parents, and grandparents. Toddlertimes and storytimes provide continuous stimulation for pre-school-aged children, and summer reading programs help students retain their abilities over the summer break.

I could go on and on, but I'll summarize by saying that no matter what their situation in life, Lebanon County residents find what they need at the Lebanon Library. Your support will ensure that residents continue to discover, learn, and enhance their lives and our community.

Friends of the Library

The Library's Friends of the Library group provides many of the library's needs not covered by the general budget. During the month of May the Friends coordinate a huge used book sale. Money raised supports purchases of additional shelves, equipment, CDs and all the Summer Reading Programs.
